Statement of Work

Friday, October 17, 2025

Preamble

This Statement of Work ("SOW"), effective as of the date identified on the signature page below (the "Effective Date"), is entered into by and between NuHarbor Security, Inc. ("NuHarbor Security" or "NuHarbor"), a Vermont corporation with offices at 553 Roosevelt Hwy, Colchester, VT 05446, and the Client identified on the signature page below ("Client").

Client wishes to purchase from NuHarbor, and NuHarbor wishes to provide to Client, the testing services described in this SOW, in each case, subject to the terms and conditions of this SOW.

In consideration of the mutual covenants and agreements contained herein, and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, NuHarbor and Client agree as follows:

Internal Infrastructure Penetration Test Engagement

Engagement Overview

NuHarbor Security will conduct an in-depth penetration test of the Client's Internal Network Infrastructure. This network-based technical testing activity is aimed at identifying and exploiting vulnerabilities on systems included in the testing scope. The penetration test will focus on high-risk issues with immediate exploitability but will also review medium/low-risk vulnerabilities that may be more difficult to exploit or have a lower impact on confidentiality, integrity, or availability.

This test is limited to the scope of systems defined in the scoping section(s) below.

Service Phases

The following service phases will be conducted under this engagement. The party with "Primary" responsibility shall have the obligation of completing that phase or Deliverable with input and support from the "Assist" party. "Review" indicates the party will need to provide feedback on the deliverable. "Shared" indicates that both parties are responsible for completing the task.

Phase	Description	NuHarbor Security	Client	Location
1	The testing scope is clearly defined, documented, and agreed to between NuHarbor Security and client.	Shared	Shared	Remote
2	Discovery scans are conducted to identify active devices and systems within the defined scope.	Primary	N/A	Remote
3	Vulnerability scans are conducted against all identified active devices and systems to identify potential vulnerabilities.	Primary	N/A	Remote
4	A combination of automated and manual testing techniques is used to exploit all identified vulnerabilities.	Primary	N/A	Remote
5	Where exploitation is successful, and the exploit does not directly result in "root" or "admin" level access, further manual and automated testing will be leveraged to escalate privileges.	Primary	N/A	Remote
6	An attempt is made to deploy a temporary agent onto all exploited systems which then services as a proxy for the tester to pivot and conduct new, additional, discovery scans to identify which systems are visible to the exploited host. Where no exploitation is successful, a temporary agent can be deployed intentionally onto a system to test pivot exposure under a hypothetical exploitation scenario ("assume breach").	Primary	N/A	Remote
Phase	Description	NuHarbor Security	Client	Location
7	Depending on the scoping of the engagement at this phase either the test concludes, or phases three through six are repeated until reaching a predefined destination within the network and no further systems are found to be exploitable.	Primary	N/A	Remote

Approach & Methodology

Internal Penetration Testing Services include a series of assessments aimed at identifying vulnerabilities that could be present on the analyzed assets. These assessments may or may not include the following tasks:

- Information gathering tests – Attempt to identify live hosts, network topology, operating system, services provided, access control mechanisms, access servers and the interactions between systems.
- Generic vulnerability tests – Attempt to determine the presence of known vulnerabilities and to exploit them. This includes vulnerabilities related to legitimately provided services such as HTTP, FTP, SMTP mail exchangers and gateways, DNS, IMAP/POP, file, and print sharing services, etc.
- Network characteristics and topology tests – Attempt to determine the presence and exploit vulnerabilities related to network topology, network components configuration and design principles and protocol specific characteristics. These include tests that consider spoofing techniques, protocol specific tests such as usage of IP options, fragmentation, exploit of trust relationships, protocol encapsulation, routing tricks, design and implementation flaws in several network protocols and related services, etc.
- Misconfiguration tests – Attempt to identify and exploit typical misconfiguration problems.
- Backdoor tests – Attempt to identify the presence of known backdoors in the company's infrastructure and exploit them.
- Authentication and access control schemes tests – Attempt to subvert authentication and access control mechanisms based on common attacks that exploit the lack of a strict security policy or the enforcement of such. This includes dictionary and brute force attacks on reusable passwords, exploit of weak authentication schemes, social engineering, exploit of contingency plan procedures, etc.

The tests will include common hacking techniques and may or may not include the use of automated penetration testing tools and other commercially available and homegrown tools.

The penetration testing effort will be focused on but not limited to:

- Assessing the security posture with regards to the network ranges to be analyzed, which includes:
 - Performing information gathering test to identify live hosts and the services they provide.
 - Determining potential vulnerabilities which might affect the hosts, services and applications discovered.
 - Exploiting the potential vulnerabilities in a controlled fashion, to weed out false positives and appraise the degree of exposure caused by the vulnerability.
 - Identify solutions to address the security issues found.
- Investigating the consequences of a targeted attack by specialized individuals, as well as evaluating the skill set required by an attacker to carry out a successful attack.
- Analyzing the potential outcome of a successful compromise
- Providing recommendations to remediate or mitigate the issues found as well as prevent similar issues from recurring.
- Documenting the results of the tests performed to construct a foundation for future testing as well as a quarterly snapshot of the security stance. This will allow the client to compare future penetration testing efforts as a means of evaluating the efficiency and effectiveness of client's efforts to strengthen its security posture.

Section headings are for convenience only and shall not affect interpretation of the relevant section. No supplement, modification, or amendment of these Terms shall be binding, unless executed in writing and signed by authorized representative of each party. No provision of any purchase order or other form provided by Customer will supersede these Terms and any such document shall be for administrative purposes only and shall have no legal effect. If any provision of these Terms is held invalid or unenforceable, the remainder of these Terms will continue in full force and effect. No waiver will be implied from conduct or failure to enforce or exercise rights under these Terms, nor will any waiver be effective unless in writing and signed by an authorized representative on behalf of the party claimed to have waived.

20. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of Illinois, without reference to its conflict of laws provisions. The provisions of the United Nations Convention on the International Sale of Goods shall not apply to this Agreement. The exclusive fora for any litigation arising out of this contract shall be the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois (Eastern Division) or the Circuit Court of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit, Kane County Illinois. .
